Space x View

Space x View (Space View Pte. Ltd.) is a pioneering space technology company founded in November 2020 by CEO Ken Matsui, headquartered in Houston, TX. The company operates globally through group companies — Space View Corporation (USA), Space View Inc. (Japan), Space View Pte. Ltd. (Singapore), and SView Pvt. Ltd. (India) — delivering integrated solutions across satellite data, metaverse, and blockchain domains. The company specializes in satellite data analytics and remote sensing, providing a one-stop Satellite Data Portal — SpaceView Insight — powered by AI algorithms for space-related data, insights, and analytics. SpaceView also operates a dedicated CubeSat component shop, offering space-quality electronic components and subsystems for satellite manufacturing and constellation operators. In the metaverse domain, Space x View plans, proposes, and develops immersive virtual spaces using Blender and Unity, and provides blockchain consulting to help clients create new digital asset value in the Web 3.0 era. The company additionally conducts R&D into microgravity manufacturing, leveraging the unique environment of space for scientific exploration and satellite development. Driven by the vision of restructuring space to create new areas of activity, Space x View aims to solve global challenges by combining cloud technology, deep learning, 3D spatial design, and blockchain — contributing to human advancement through a multiverse of spatial innovations.
